INVESTIGATING THE CIA

CIA Director William Colby and Rep. Otis Pike (D.-N.Y.), Chairman of the House Committee on Intelligence, will answer audience questions concerning the Congressional investigations of the CIA, at this year's last National Town Meeting. The program will be held in the Eisenhower Theatre of the Kennedy Center, here in Washington, on Wednesday, Dec. 10th, from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m.. Washington Post correspondent, Walter Pincus, will serve as moderator.

The program will be broadcast nationally by the Associated Press Radio service and the National Public Radio network. Local broadcasts will be carried 'live' by WAMU-FM (88.5) and WETA-FM (90.9) will carry the rebroadcast on Thursday evening at 6:30.

Admission is open free to the public and seats have been made available for the press.

The National Town Meetings, which are funded by a grant from the Mobil Oil Corporation, will resume again in late January.
